Good morning –

You will need to contact the clinical investigator of the study or the sponsor. I cannot give information on ongoing clinical trials. I can point you to NIH's website. You can search for your trial on this website. This should provide you with additional information as well. Please see the web link below.

Dear Sr,

I am currently in the process of advising my Mum to enter or not in the clinical trial with identifier attached in this email. In order to make the best decision we need all kind of information regarding the new drug proposed.

Thank you very much in advance.

Best regards
